Bryn Mawr and Berwyn Bow to Narberth; Borough Nine Regains First Place in League

Errors Costly to Berwyn, While

WALKER YIELDS 2 HITS

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Known as a club which almost invariably comes back strong when it is necessary, Narberth gave its loyal supporters something to cheer about over the week-end by climbing back into first place of the Main Line League with victories over Berwyn and the powerful Bryn Mawr Choctaws. Gene Davis' ambitious and colorful aggregation kept in the running for a first-place berth last Saturday by tripping Berwyn, 5-4, then traveled up to Villanova Stadium Sunday and trounced the daylighters out of Danny Hemmer's boys to the tune of 9-0, thus taking the lead again, even though it's by the slim margin of a half-game.

In the conquest of Bob Paist's club, the Davismen showed little to warm the hearts for its followers, for the reason that the win came directly as the result of two costly errors on the part of the upper Main Liners, but certainly the victory at the college field was one to be proud of and proved that Narberth has more than "just a ball club."

The Borough boys had only one error against the Paistmen, the lone miscue committed by Harry Francis, which allowed one run to cross in a freak manner. Burns, left fielder, slashed a high fly to Harry, which became lost temporarily in the sun and struck him on the fingers of his gloved hand. The ball rolled into the crowd which was keeping the scoreboard company and before Francis could retrieve it, Burns had circled the bases.

Harry is a determined sort of fellow, though, and came back in great style the next inning to give Narberth the lead when he poled a home run that almost rolled to the Conway avenue back yards after Howard Graham had reached base when Pitcher Paul Farren muffed his pop-up.

Berwyn came back later, hitting the ball solidly and were sporting a 4-2 lead as the seventh session came up, when the two errors that sent them stumbling happened. Graham started the rally that later gave him a victory by socking a single, as did Francis, then First Baseman Hughes dropped a throw on Howdy Powell's grounder, allowing one run to dent the plate. The two big runs crossed soon thereafter when Center Fielder Davis muffed Walt MacGregor's high loft.

Military Camp Named for Husband of Narberth Woman

The Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Meade, Md., has been designated "Camp Ward W. Pierson" in honor of Major Ward W. Pierson, who trained with the 79th Division at that post and was killed in action while making an advance reconnaissance of the enemy's position near Etrage, France, on the night of November 8-9, 1918. For heroic conduct at that time he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously. Major Pierson's widow, Mrs. Harriet A. Pierson, resides at 206 Stephney Place, Narberth.

Hear Talk on Roses

The Penn Valley Garden Club held a meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Burke Wilford, on Linden lane and Sycamore road, Merion, on Monday morning. Miss Florence Bergerman gave an interesting talk on "Roses."

Hold Garden Bridge

The Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter of N. S. D. A. R. held a very successful garden bridge party last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John C. Nash, 80 Wynnedale avenue, Narberth.

Admitted to Bar

Franklin C. Hutchinson of 208 Woodside avenue, Narberth, was admitted to the Montgomery County Bar last Friday. He attended Lower Merion High School, the University of Pennsylvania and the U. of P. Law School. He is the son of William Y. Hutchinson.

Additional ballots received during the past week brought the total votes of those opposed to the merger of Narberth with Lower Merion Township to 305. Seventy-two votes have been cast in favor of the project. The poll is conducted by "Our Town."

Darby Daisies Tramp on Narberth Club 12-1

Davismen Strengthen Hold on
First Place by Defeating
Brookline

TIMELY GILFILLAN HIT

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Narberth cemented its hold on first place in the Main Line League during the week, adding Brookline to its list of victims by a 7-6 score, in a game which wasn't decided until the final frame. This contest, played Wednesday, set Gene Davis' men back in their stride after they had shown weak form bowing to Hilldale in a game Monday by the overwhelming count of 12-1.

Of course, few of the fans expect to see a Narberth victory when the colored aggregation comes to town, and there were few regrets over the loss to the Darby Daisies, but had the Borough tossers dropped their battle with Johnny Nunan's South Ardmore tossers, they would have dropped back to second place.

However, in spite of their losing on Monday, the only fielding thrills were credited to the homesters. Charley Carroll, talented first baseman, gave the first by making a sensational snare of Johnson's liner back of first base; then Cliff Mooney raced under the trees in left later and pulled up short after making a great catch through the branches.

Bob Gilfillan's single in the final inning brought home the bacon in the Brookline fray. Nunan's club had wiped out a 6-1 lead in the seventh by banging the pellet soundly for five runs, and Pitcher Bud Walker was shaky on the mound. Rubincam, substituting for Howdy Powell at second base, due to the latter's injured side, opened with a single, which was followed by Harry Francis' fourth safety of the night and, with one out, Gilly smacked the important single over second, sending the Narberth fans home happy.

Score by innings Monday:
Hilldale 2 0 1 4 1 2 2—12
Wednesday:
Brookline 0 1 0 0 0 0 5 0—6
Narberth 0 0 2 0 2 1 0 1—7

Wins New York Matches

Dr. Herbert Fischer, playing on the all-Philadelphia tennis team last week-end against Boston and New York for the George M. Church Cup, won all four of his singles and doubles matches. His team defeated Boston, but lost to New York. Dr. Fischer, a member of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club, has been tennis coach at Radnor High School for several years, and is a brother of Dr. Carl Fischer, former Lower Merion star, who held the American Inter-collegiate title.

Narberth Firemen Down Cynwyd, Lose to Police

The Narberth Fire Company upset the Cynwyd Firemen in a thrilling game Tuesday night on the Cynwyd school field by a 3-2 score. On Wednesday night, the Borough smoke eaters, who have staged a strong comeback, had a 6-2 lead on the Lower Merion-Narberth Police nine as the seventh inning opened. The final score at the end of that inning was Police 7—Narberth 6.

Tonight the Ardmore Firemen are scheduled to oppose the Police at Narberth.

Scout Leader Sails

Miss Julia Williamson, Brownie director of the Girl Scouts, will sail on the S. S. Westerland, today, en route to Bucze, Poland, where the World Conference of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts takes place August 6-15. Miss Williamson is well known on the Main Line, as she was very active in scout work here, having founded the Haverford Troop and directed its activities.

Boys' Band to Play at Lutheran Church

Concerts on Lawn to be Given
This Saturday and Sunday
Evenings

IS FAMED ORGANIZATION

The Tressler Orphans' Home Band, of Loysville, Pa., will render two concerts on the lawn of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Narberth, this Saturday evening at 7.15 P. M., and this Sunday evening at 6.15 P. M. The latter concert will take the form of a devotional and patriotic service.

There are 40 boys in the band this year ranging in age from 10 to 17 years. They will offer a diversified program, consisting of instrumental and vocal solos, popular and classical numbers. One of this year's features will be a ten-year-old bass drummer. This will be the second time in the history of the band that a boy of ten years has played the bass drum.

This is the eighteenth annual tour of this famous boys' organization, which is one of the oldest of its kind in the country. In the early history of the band they made their tours in the old-fashioned "band wagons." Therefore their trips had to be short. But today they spend the three summer months on the road in their own bus, rendering about 120 concerts and covering about 5500 miles.

The band is under the leadership of Marion C. Walter, who was a member of the organization in its early days. Graduating from the home in 1921, he came back in 1929 to take active leadership of the band of which he was once a member.

They are brought to Narberth under the auspices of the Lutheran Church. The boys are being entertained in the homes of the congregation while in Narberth. The concerts are free. A silver offering, however, will be taken at each concert, the entire proceeds going to the home, which takes care of more than 325 children. The public is cordially invited.

Open Exchange

Miss Harriet Croft and Miss Mary Niemeyer have opened an exchange for handicraft and foods at 802 Montgomery avenue, the corner of Woodbine avenue, Narberth. All sorts of articles are being exchanged.

Young Narberth Collector, Eugene Claghorn, Obtains Autograph of George Bernard Shaw

One of the toughest nuts for autograph collectors to crack, George Bernard Shaw, fell before the persistence of a young Narberth collector, C. Eugene Claghorn, of Chestnut avenue, recently.

For the past four years Mr. Claghorn has been collecting autographs of famous statesmen, authors, athletes, inventors, actors, aviators, etc. His collection, numbering some 350 signatures, including letters and documents of 24 of the 30 presidents of the United States, resembles a "Who's Who" of famous people throughout the world.

The Shaw autograph Claghorn prizes highly, since it is one he has sought for four years, and is notoriously difficult to obtain. He had written to Shaw nearly a dozen times, his method being to enclose a photo

REVIEW YEAR'S WORK

Manned by a new crew, the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club set sail for another year's cruise Tuesday. The retiring captain stepped down to take his place among the petty officers and the former first mate was elevated with all due ceremony.

Which, in more or less poetic fashion, records the fact that J. Bedford Wooley, Penn Valley architect, became president of the club, succeeding Ralph S. Dunne, Narberth coal dealer. Dr. Barclay L. Jones, headmaster of the Friends' Central School, Overbrook, although not present at the meeting, took office as vice-president; J. L. McCrery, Narberth banker, was welcomed as treasurer, and William H. Durbin, Narberth real estate dealer and athlete, as secretary.

Walter B. Richards and Raymond L. Watrous became directors, serving with Mr. Dunne, Mr. Wooley and Mr. Durbin. William S. Howard, business partner of the new secretary, was re-appointed sergeant-at-arms.

In terminating his work as president, Mr. Dunne reviewed the events of a successful club year. The attendance had been exceptionally good; interesting programs had been provided; the club had adjusted itself to changed financial conditions by writing off the loss of all its treasury in the Merion Title and Trust Company, and then cutting dues in half. With it all, the year ended with a clean slate and a small nest egg.

Mr. Wooley assumed his new office with a brief talk, in which he looked forward to an equally successful year.

To Mr. Dunne went the past president's diamond pin and a button in honor of a year's perfect attendance.

To the club went a gift which takes its place among its most interesting and valuable possessions. Past President Alvin E. Shull, president of the Shull Lumber Company, presented the club with a sign for the front of its meeting place, the Overbrook Golf Club. The design, a Rotary Wheel, flanked with two hemispheres, was worked out with the same ingenuity as the speaker's desk, which Mr. Shull presented to the club during the past year.

Literature Group Tuesday

The Literature Group of the Women's Community Club of Narberth will hold a meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter J. Odiorne, 321 Merion avenue, Narberth, at 1.30 P. M. Mrs. Charles W. Dillingham will review one of the new mystery stories.

Summer School Starts Monday

The summer session of the Narberth Schools will open on Tuesday, July 5, instead of July 11, as was announced last week. Sessions will be six days a week, starting at 8.30. The summer school will end August 6.

Guild Holds Outing

The Narberth Branch of the Needlework Guild of America held an all day outing at the summer home of Mrs. R. H. Durbin, of North Narberth avenue, in Avalon, N. J., on Wednesday. This was the final meeting of the season.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. B. Humes, of 306 S. Narberth avenue, Narberth, who graduated last week from the University of Pennsylvania Law School. Miss Humes graduated from Lower Merion in 1925 and from the School of Fine Arts at Penn in 1929.

"Anti-Starvation" Campaign Under Way

Involves Direct Giving of Food Through Retail Stores of Main Line

CLUBS SPONSOR PLAN

An "anti-starvation" campaign which in scope exceeds any former Main Line effort, was begun this week. Designed to secure the help of every family in the district, it will involve the direct giving of food and clothing to those in want.

The simplicity of the idea, and its appeal to all classes, has been obtained by soliciting contributions through the retail stores of the district, at the time when purchases are being made. In most of the larger Main Line stores barrels will be placed, on which a sign will explain the procedure. A householder buying provisions will be invited to place in the barrel one or more articles of food bought for that purpose. Clothing can also be placed in the barrels.

The plan was originated by the combined service clubs of the Main Line: The Main Line Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Clubs of Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth; Ardmore and Paoli-Berwyn-Malvern. Assisting and administering the contributions will be a women's committee.

The articles placed in the various containers will be gathered every other day into a sorting center in Narberth, Ardmore and Wayne, where the contributions will be classified and held in readiness for distribution through five relief organizations: The Main Line Federation of Churches, the Neighborhood League of Wayne, the Paoli Branch of the Red Cross, the Bala-Cynwyd Social Service League, and the Social Service Department of Bryn Mawr Hospital.

In charge of the preliminary work are a group of service club members co-operating with Edwin W. Ehmann, chairman of the Main Line Emergency Committee. L. S. Lamb, I. V. Hale and W. H. Riggs represent the Kiwanis Club; J. Elmer Watts, Robert S. Beal and Ralph Springer, the Ardmore Rotary Club; J. Bedford Wooley and Ralph S. Dunne the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club.

Mrs. William T. Dickson, of Overbrook, is chairman of the Women's Committee; Mrs. Harold W. How, of Rosemont, is vice-chairman; Mrs. Stacy B. Lloyd, of Ardmore, is honorary chairman, and Mrs. Wm. C. Alexander, Jr., is secretary.

Among those present were Mrs. Joseph H. Hongler, president of the club; Mrs. Wesley Carlson, assistant program chairman; Mrs. Joseph H. Miller, Mrs. Walter J. Odiorne, Mrs. Caryl E. Starr, Mrs. Bernard F. Keenan and Mrs. John C. Nash.

Stage Set for 4th of July Observance

Fireworks Display at Playground, Music and Singing Features

FRYE ANSWERS CRITICISM

The stage is set for Narberth's annual Fourth of July celebration which in past years has excelled any fireworks display in the Philadelphia suburbs.

The Citizens' Committee in charge of the affair Monday state that this year's display will be better than last year, when some 10,000 people thronged the Playground to witness the event.

Additional features of this year's celebration, which is also in the nature of a George Washington Bicentennial observance, will be community singing under the leadership of a prominent song leader, and the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Ralph S. Dunne.

Amplifiers will be installed on the field for announcements, and the broadcasting of music and the Declaration. Seats will also be available to identified contributors to the Fourth Fund.

The following statement was made this week regarding the Fourth observance by Murgess Henry A. Frye:

"Some criticism, both public and private, has been made of my action in appointing a committee this year for a special observance of July 4th, and more particularly of their action in asking for public support of a fireworks display. That criticism I respect and accept in the spirit in which it was given, for I have no desire to make any personal defense. At the same time, I feel that the way to forestall any misunderstanding is to give the facts as I see them right now, for the question is highly debatable and accurate information is necessary to form an intelligent decision.

"Narberth many years ago banned dangerous fireworks with the happy result that we have had no serious accidents in comparison with other suburban communities. Many persons have freely expressed themselves by their hearty approval of the plan, for it has not only meant a more restful day, but also one with an enjoyable ending, since the American Legion has been providing the pyrotechnics.

"That the idea has found favor is evidenced by the increasing size of the crowds which have gathered at the playground. According to police records the gathering last year was the largest ever assembled on the Main Line. From the financial point of view, it has always been self-supporting, many people having felt that their contribution would bring more

Receives State Appointment; Assigned to Merion Title

Desmond J. McTigue, of Narberth, an attorney with offices at Norris-town, was appointed an assistant attorney to the Pennsylvania Department of Justice this week.

Mr. McTigue has been assigned to the Merion Title and Trust Company as a representative of this Department, which, in co-operation with the State Banking Department, is handling the affairs of closed banks.

Auto Catches Fire

Slight damage was caused to an automobile in a garage at Brynwood Manor Inn, 1236 Montgomery avenue, Narberth, by fire last Sunday night. The Narberth Fire Company responded to the alarm.

Relief Fund Gone

During the winter several generous citizens contributed to a fund to help families in difficulty, who could not for sufficient reasons be assisted with money from organized charities because of the publicity involved. That fund is now exhausted, but there still remain some worthy cases. Anyone wanting more information as to the operation of the plan and desiring to contribute should communicate with the undersigned.

Hurrah for the Fourth of July!

Narberth makes ready for its annual Fourth of July observance and it may be expected that the usual vast concourse will gather on the Playground to claim the great day and the patriotic memories which it shall never cease to stir.

No doubt, the Committee will encounter handicaps in collecting the funds needed for the occasion, in line with everything else which requires money in this year of woe and worry, but there is no question that a sufficient amount will be obtained and the fine tradition of the Borough properly maintained.

Certainly, it would be too bad if our great national holiday would have to pass unnoticed and unsung and we should all strive, as best we can, to serve notice that life has not yet stopped dead in its tracks and that we are prepared to fight on until a better day dawns and affairs resume a more even tenor of their ways.

At any rate, it will cost nothing to fly your flag, and drape your bunting, and it is hoped that the entire community will be in gala array, particularly in view of the added significance which is given this year's celebration as a result of the Washington Bi-Centennial. Assemble, everybody, on the Playground!

Politics Gone to Seed

The defect in our representative form of government lies in the fact that it usually represents a group of bosses, and not the citizens. It is rather disappointing to see Governor Pinchot, the sworn enemy of gang politics, act as sponsor for a campaign of spite appointments which would put a Tammany boss to shame.

Lower Merion, which has already suffered in the removal of several holders of honorary posts, now must sit by and watch two health officials, performing their work with due regard for public welfare, yanked from their jobs in order to accommodate another pair of men whose sole qualification lies in the fact that they have gotten on the patronage list of the Governor's Montgomery County satellite, T. Duncan Just.

Of course, a great deal of the uproar is coming from staunch adherents of County Leader Johnson, who hold their own positions through a similar patronage system. It is easy to brush their fulminations aside, but it is not so easy to disregard the protests of health officials, doctors and prominent citizens against political interference in health matters.

Neither George C. Anderson, who has served many years as registrar of vital statistics, nor Frank D. Warner, who was dropped as State Health officer, have used their jobs for political purposes. Their removal merely open two appointments for men whose experience in health matters seems to consist of voting for Mr. Pinchot.

In the case of Mr. Anderson, the change in the job will remove the valuable vital statistics records of the Township from the vaults of the Board of Health in the Township building to the private home or office of a local jeweler. There

Wet Dissatisfaction

Middle-of-the-roader that he is, The Vagrant is unable to perceive why the Wets are so much dissatisfied with the modification platform of the Republican party. In fact, he is inclined to suspect that such Wet dissatisfaction was confined principally to the paid propagandists who have, through newspapers, conducted with consummate skill a campaign aimed at the national conventions of both the major parties. The dissatisfaction with the Republican plank was probably vociferousness aimed principally at the Democrats. Undoubtedly the newspaper campaign of the Wets, including the timely release of the Junior Rockefeller's statement, caused Hoover, with a cautiousness which was obviously reluctant, to permit even the modification plank which was finally adopted. At this writing, which is before the adoption of the Democratic platform, it looks like a safe prediction that the Wets will be even more successful with them.

Decisive Factor

If there are Wets who seriously desire and expect a complete repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment with no precautions as to what will be done to control the liquor traffic by the individual states, they are doomed to disappointment. The Wets have made headway only in proportion as they have been able to win to their side the support of the people of moderate opinions. They can proceed just so far as moderate opinion will follow them. It was that middle group who finally permitted the amendment to be adopted. They did so because they were disgusted with the evils of the organized liquor traffic; not because they personally abhorred liquor as such. The moderates and the fanatical Drys began to part company with the passage of the Volstead Act, which was more drastic than moderate opinion could approve. The Wets will be well advised if they profit by the experience of the Drys and do not attempt to travel any farther nor any faster than moderate opinion will follow. The moderates have abandoned the Drys as extremists. They would as readily abandon the Wets for the same reason.

Masculine Machine

Dismayed at the possibility of the expense involved, La Vagante, frugally making her own garments, called urgently for help when the electric sewing machine refused to run. (Possibly it would be more correct to have indicated that she was re-making her garments). Machines and men and dogs naturally understand each other. There is a fraternity among them which no woman can ever acquire. Thus it was that The Vagrant responded with more than usual alacrity. Here was the woman come quickly to the short end of her mechanical knowledge. It was fortunate, he thought, that he happened to be available. Urging La Vagante out of her sewing chair, The Vagrant seats himself and begins a diagnosis which stretches out minute by minute and requires much fetching of tools by La Vagante, willing and expectant. But the machine does not start. "You'll have to get the repair man for this," is the final opinion of The Vagrant, who forthwith abandons the spot and the scattered tools and returns to his reading. No sooner is his back turned than La Vagante picks up the machine, shakes it vigorously and emphatically, sets it down as one might an unruly child, seats herself before it, puts her toe on the power release, and that complicated and masculine machine docilely responds and purrs along with its work just as though it had never failed at all!

2D INSPECTION BEGINS

New Stickers Must Be Secured Before Close of Period, Sept. 30

Ultramarine blue and gold will be the new windshield dress for Pennsylvania automobiles starting this Friday, July 1, when the second compulsory automobile inspection begins. Frank E. Ballantyne, General Manager of the A. A. A.—Automobile Club of Philadelphia, said yesterday in announcing the design of the new sticker, which is radically different from the one used in the first inspection.

So as to eliminate possibility of fraud in their use, the new stickers will have the inspection station number perforated and little squares have been provided for the month and date, which are to be punched by the stationer.

are many Pinchot admirers who will question his good faith in appointments of this kind. Public Health matters should be out of reach of gang politics.

Dr. Howard A. Banks

Dr. Howard A. Banks, a former resident of Narberth, and prominent in religious work, died last Saturday morning in Pittsburgh. He was born in North Carolina in 1867, graduated from Davidson College in that state, and was granted the honorary degree of Litt. D. some years ago by his alma mater.

Dr. Banks was a resident of Woodside avenue, Narberth, from 1917 to 1926, when he moved to Pittsburgh. He was a ruling elder of the Narberth Presbyterian Church from 1918 to the time of his removal from the Borough. At one time editor of the Sunday School Times, he later founded Christ Life, which he edited at the time of his death.

Dr. Banks was secretary to Secretary of the Navy Daniels during the Wilson administration. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Henry and Richard.

Narberth Manufacturers' Prices Offered by Challenger

Substantial savings for householders are made possible by the Challenger Company, whose establishment has just been opened at 717 Montgomery avenue, Narberth, in the Arcade near Meeting House lane. According to Mr. F. S. Challenger, manufacturers' prices are being charged for the varied line of interior decorations now available.

Elimination of middle-men's profits is made possible by the fact that manufacturing is done at the shop, of upholstered furniture, slip covers, etc. On sale are such things as tapestries, window shades, draperies, furniture and slip covers. The Challenger Company extends an excellent service that includes upholstering, re-finishing and repairing furniture.

Whooping Cough Leads

This week-end Narberth's feature is the thrilling, well-filmed Tarzan tale, starring Johnny Weissmuller, Maureen O'Sullivan, a chimpanzee, and lots of ferocious, as well as friendly, animals.

Elissa Landi lends glamor and good acting to "The Woman in Room 13," coming next Monday and Tuesday. Patriotic feature the Fourth, as well as fifth, is "Washington—Man and Capital." "Woman in Room 13," according to the Civic Club of Philadelphia movie bulletin, has good cast, photography and direction, and is based on a play about divorce and politics by Sam Shipman.

"Impatient Maiden," next Wednesday and Thursday, has a cast including Lew Ayres, Mae Clarke, Una Merkel and John Halliday. A Laurel and Hardy comedy accompanies the feature.

"So Big," Edna Ferber's story, comes next week-end, with Barbara Stanwyck giving an outstanding performance.

Sophisticated romance is "Man Wanted," starring Kay Francis, Una Merkel and David Manners at the Egyptian this Friday and Saturday nights. Saturday's matinee feature is "Charlie Chan's Chance," in which Warner Oland does clever detective work.

Based on Upton Sinclair's novel, "The Wet Parade," coming to Cynwyd next Wednesday and Thursday, compares life of the pre-war era with present-day excitement. It is a significant cinema, full of interest. The cast includes Lewis Stone, Walter Huston, Dorothy Jordan, Neil Hamilton and Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante. Miriam Hopkins and George Bancroft are in "The World and the Flesh," exciting tale of Russia in 1917, due at the Egyptian next week-end.

His owners regarded the importance of his Drinking Water to such an extent that they shipped great quantities of Pure Water to each track, where he competed throughout the year's circuit, rather than risk using the water at hand.

Dr. Laird Discusses American Architecture

Country Houses and Office Buildings Seen as Outstanding Contributions by Penn Professor, Merion Resident, Who Retires Today

What are the outstanding contributions of the United States to architecture? One need not leave the Main Line to observe one of them—the country house—which with the office building are most characteristic of this country in the opinion of Warren Powers Laird, who retires today as professor emeritus of architecture at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Laird, who received the degree of doctor of laws at Penn's commencement last week, has been professor of architecture at the University for the past forty-one years and dean of the School of Fine Arts since its founding in 1920.

Interviewed at his home on South Highland avenue, Merion, this week, Dr. Laird described in reminiscent fashion the developments which have taken place in the field of architecture during the past fifty years, which he believes have been more remarkable than in any other profession for the similar period.

Country Houses Outstanding

"We have given our country houses a character and quality," he said, which differentiate them from the country houses of other nations. There is a school of architects in Philadelphia which has been very successful in handling country houses in the manner of colonial times, using native stone in a simple, tasteful way. There are houses scattered all along the Main Line which illustrate this and the country houses of the Philadelphia suburbs are outstanding in the country."

In speaking of office buildings, which he believes to be America's other claim to distinction in the field of architecture, Dr. Laird recalled the first high building in New York City, the Tower Building, erected when he was working there as a draughtsman. This was eight stories high and was made possible by the development of the elevator.

"We have done in erecting high buildings what medieval Europe did in building churches, making them bigger and higher. The latest of the gothic cathedrals were the largest and highest. That at Bouvee, for instance, was so high that the nave fell in. There may be office buildings built higher than the Chrysler and Empire State buildings, but the additional height will be merely for advertising purposes."

Size Limitation Economic

"Is it impractical to build skyscrapers higher than these structures?"

"It is entirely possible to construct a building a mile high," was the reply. "Man can do anything he wishes to do. He has proved it in point of magnitude. The only limitation on the size and height of a building is an economic one. The cost of such a structure would be prohibitive and elevator shafts would require so much space that there would be little else but a shell with no available space to rent. The dangers in high building, providing adequate foundation and wind pressure, can be planned against."

No American Style

"This discussion of America's outstanding contributions to architecture brings us to an interesting point," Dr. Laird said, "as to whether there can be an American style. I hold the view that there cannot. Style means a phase of architecture developed by an isolated people which becomes characteristic of that people and pertains to all their building. Architectural styles developed when the world stood in compartments, so to speak, and people had a sense of insularity. The Renaissance was the last distinct architectural style. This spread over Europe in the 15th and 16th centuries and has prevailed ever since. Skyscrapers are characteristic of America, but they do not constitute a style which implies a racial mode of building."

Modernistic Architecture

"What about modernistic architecture?" "That is another matter," Dr. Laird said. "There has never been a time since aboriginal man drew his on cave walls that men have not tried to do something different. The usual trend is that the new way becomes the prevailing way until other iconoclasts come along with a different way, and get themselves hated. There has been a custom in architecture or many years to copy ancient forms which is not a good practice."

"A cult began in the Scandinavian countries known as functionalism, which has made its influence felt in Europe and the United States. It holds that the design of a building should express its purpose or function. The new Philadelphia Savings Fund Building at 12th and Market is the first example of this kind of building in Philadelphia." This type of architecture will run its course, Dr. Laird believes, with the result being an influence towards something rational and simple.

Architect a Director-General

"The architect today is a sort of director-general employing experts in many different lines, such as sanitation, mechanical and acoustical engineers. His work is infinitely more complex than it was fifty years ago, when a building was little more than a well-built shelter. But the satisfactions of the architect are just as great and I believe that it is no harder for a well-trained man who has chosen his profession wisely to get ahead than it is in other fields."

Although retiring from his academic duties this week, Dr. Laird does not anticipate having time hang heavy on his hands. He expects to go to Los Angeles this summer to sit on the jury judging architectural exhibits held in connection with the Olympic games.

Born in Minnesota

Born in Winona, Minn., Dr. Laird was educated in the public and state normal schools of Minnesota and at Cornell University. He spent one year as an instructor at Cornell and a few years later a year at Penn with six years of practice and study with architects mixed in. He became professor of Architecture at Penn in 1891 and dean of the fine arts school in 1920. He has been consulting architect to many state, municipal and private bodies in the United States and Canada.

Dr. Laird is a member of the Pennsylvania State Art Commission, of the Philadelphia Zoning Commission, a director of the Regional Planning Federation, a fellow of the American Institute of Architects, a member of the Archeological Institute of America, of the American Civic Association, a director of the Philadelphia Art Alliance, and a member of the permanent committee of the International Congress of Architects.

In 1927 he attended the Third Pan-American Congress of Architects at Buenos Aires as a representative of the United States Government, the University of Pennsylvania and the American Institute of Architects.

Six American, One Russian Play on Hedgerow Program

Six plays by contemporary American writers and one by a famous Russian are to be offered in the program for next week at the Hedgerow Theatre in Rose Valley. The first is a special matinee performance at three o'clock on Monday to celebrate the Fourth of July, and the play is Susan Glaspell's "Inheritors," which has now become the traditional revival for both Memorial Day and Independence Day at Hedgerow. The Monday night show also has been selected from the repertory to accommodate the holiday spirit of gayer mood—Virginia Farmer's adaptation of Stephen Leacock's travesty melodrama, "Cast Up By the Sea."

Lynn Riggs is represented twice in the week, on Tuesday by his poetic and lusty comedy, "Roadside," and on Friday by his newest and very different work, "The Cherokee Night." The only comedy mystery show in the repertory, "Solitaire Man," by the Spewacks, will be given one of its infrequent presentations on Wednesday night; on Thursday night Anton Chekhov's drama of Russians before the Revolution, "The Sea Gull" will be shown. The Saturday night performance next week is Eugene O'Neill's "The Emperor—Jones," with Arthur Rich in the title role, and Jasper Deeter in the part of the Cockney trader. "The Emperor—Jones" is the show for tonight, and for tomorrow night, Shaw's "Heartbreak House."

Closed Saturdays

During July and August, including this week-end, the Narberth office of Suburban Publications, Inc., will be closed Saturdays. Subscribers, advertisers, etc., of the "News of Bala-Cynwyd" and of "Our Town," who wish to make Saturday morning telephone calls concerning any paper in the "Main Line Quality Group" may call Ardmore 3100 or Ardmore 3253.

Postage Increase is Effective July 6

First-Class Mail Will Require Three-Cent Stamp Under
New Tax Law

AIR MAIL 8c AN OUNCE

Familiarity on the part of the public with the new postal rates, effective next Wednesday, is urged by Postmaster General Walter P. Brown and Main Line postmasters.

Failure to prepay the proper amount of postage, it is pointed out, will result in delay, annoyance and confusion, as well as unnecessary labor and expense on the part of the postal service.

Beginning July 6, a postage rate of three cents an ounce or fraction thereof, and for each additional ounce, will become effective on letters and other first-class matter, with the exception of postal cards, private mailing cards and post cards.

Changes in air-mail rates, effective July 6, provide a charge of eight cents for the first ounce or fraction thereof, and thirteen cents for each additional ounce or fraction, regardless of distance. This includes the transportation to and from the air-mail route.

Exceptions to the last ruling include air mail sent to Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands or the Canal Zone, on which the rates now in force will continue. These are ten cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof between Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands and the United States, and twenty cents for each half ounce or fraction between the Canal Zone and Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Folette.

In the announcement of perfect attendance at the Narberth Public School for the year in last week's issue, the name of Peggy Stam appeared as a pupil awarded a seal. This should have read Marie Tapp.

Fourth Library Reading List, "Biography," Announced

Biographies comprise the fourth in a series of twelve book lists which have been prepared for the Library for the benefit of those patrons who may desire to systematize their readings. This group includes the lives of men and women who have strongly influenced the times in which they lived, and consequently all time.

1.—Education of a Princess, by Marie, Grand Duchess of Russia. Fascinating story of her escape during the tragic days of the Revolution.

2.—Abraham Lincoln by Lord Charnwood. In which an English historian interprets for his country the great Emancipator.

3.—Mere Marie of the Ursulines, by Agnes Repplier. An adventure in teaching French children and in Christianizing Indian children in the early days of Quebec.

4.—The Lady of Godey's Book, Sarah J. Hale, by Ruth E. Finley. Story of the first woman editor and one who formed the habits and set the fashions of our grandmothers.

5.—Saints and Sinners, by Gamaliel Bradford. A series of biographies in Bradford's inimitable style, showing that there is very little difference between the two groups.

6.—Hitler, by Emil Lengyel. A very insignificant figure and a powerful one in German affairs today.

7.—Power and Glory, Life of Boies Penrose, by Walter Davenport. The results of Party discipline as enforced by the boss of Pennsylvania.

8.—Horace Walpole, by Stephen Gwynn. An interesting personality of the Eighteenth Century whose tastes and foibles are better understood by people of the Twentieth Century than they were by those of the Nineteenth.

9.—Pershing—The Story of a Great Soldier, by Harold McCracken. A brief and readable biography of "Black Jack's" colorful career.

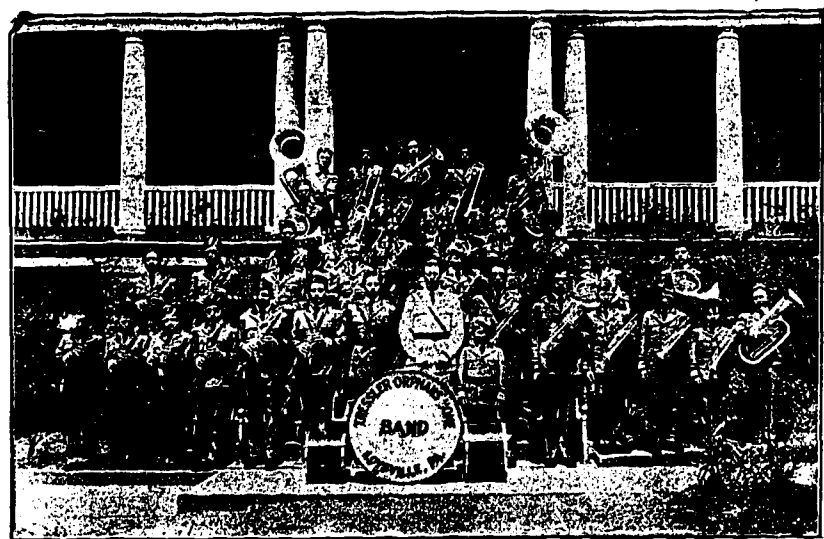

10.—Education of Henry Adams. Often termed one of the most important books written in America during the nineteenth century.

11.—Microbe Hunters, by Paul de Kruif. The lives of men who have been outstanding in the fight against disease.

12.—Upstream, by Ludwig Lewisohn. The spiritual biography of a sensitive mind.

13.—Henry the VIII, by Francis Hackett. The monarch of many wives lives again in the midst of his turbulent times.

14.—The Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini. A self-revealing picture of himself and his times by this rois-

And now the doggone beetles!

Thanks for a new spray material that kills all insects but does not poison fruit or animals. Prethrum and rotenone are the insecticide ingredients, water only is needed. Japanese beetles, Mexican bean beetles and even ants may be controlled with this new spray.

Still time to plant dahlia tubers for fall flowering.

Watch evergreen azaleas, rhododendrons and laurel in sunny situations for the work of lace wing fly. This insect works on the back of leaves, leaving black marks, and discolors the foliage by eating out the fleshy part. Any contact spray, such as nicotine-soap, pyrethrum-soap or pyrethrum-rotenone-soap, will be found effective.

Keep the hand lawn mower adjusted as high as it will go to shade the ering artist of the Italian Renaissance.

15.—St. Francis of Assisi, by Sabatier. The story of one of the foremost Christians of all times, the founder of the Franciscan order.

16.—Eminent Victorians, by Lytton Strachey. Brief portraits of John Henry Newman, Florence Nightingale, Dr. Arnold, Cardinal Manning, William Gladstone and General Gordon by the outstanding master of modern biography.

July is just about the best time to start seeds of perennials, biennials and rock garden plants. We should have sturdy little seedlings by fall, either for planting out under light mulch or for carrying over in cold frame. A cold frame is necessary so that the seed rows may be watered, shaded and weeded conveniently. Glass covers are not necessary for hardy plants. Lath covers are sufficient, with burlap used to keep the seed rows shaded until the seeds break through, then just the lath cover to keep half of the sun and all of the cats out.

Use OUR TOWN and get what you are after (adv't), as the Fourth of July Committee did last week in announcing its need of several thousand song-sheets, free-for-nothing, to be quickly answered by George Mahl's generous offer to provide, with his compliments, the entire lot of them, and so that important want has been fulfilled and there shall be no doubt of the huge hosannah which shall better the summer skies. Make sure to be on hand for it.

There is evidence that the perennial objection to expending money for fireworks instead of food is more articulate this year than before, and, in view of the parlous times, that could reasonably be expected. The matter can be easily settled, however, by each individual doing exactly what he or she prefers to do and, of course, that is what is going to happen. Nothing shall be gained by making faces at the man who does not agree with you and it would be a foolish fellow who would get perturbed, particularly in a small town, because he sees others doing what he thinks should not be done, assuming, of course, that the object sought, one way or the other, is within the reasonable rights of those who seek it.

Through the years we have had to do rather extensively with public collections, scoring a high point of $100,000 in one year and more than a quarter million for the total record, facts which are only mentioned to attest the value of the opinions we may express. We never had the advantage of an "organization" and had to come at close grips always with those whose money we sought. However inspired we might have been by the cause which we espoused, we never failed to come abreast of a multiplicity of reasons why the cash should not be surrendered. If it was the orphans whose needs we proclaimed, we were told the State ought to take care of them, not a private purse. If it was a woman's college whose foundation we were helping to achieve, we were laughed to scorn for advancing the idea that anybody should help to give higher education to women, as that was only producing a race of snobs, anyhow, and furthermore, the money was more sorely needed by the poor. Almost always it was the plight of the poor which was countered back to us, but it is the honest truth we tell, out of an extensive experience, when we say that those who lamented most the poverty-stricken of the land gave precious little practical application of that solicitude when the opportunity was accorded unto them.

A paragraph back we suggested that there should be no face-making at others who hold a viewpoint which differs from your own, and we don't want to appear to be breaking our own rule. Nevertheless, it is only fair to avail ourselves of the chance to pay tribute to the fine folks of Narberth as we know them, and we can claim to know them exceedingly well, having picked their pockets pretty clean for 15 years. Therefore, we say to you that those who regularly contribute to this nice neighborhood occasion, when we acclaim, with sincerity and patriotic affection, the Birth of the Nation and all that it involves, are the very first to come to the rescue of every local emergency, and you can be quite sure that their donations for fireworks shall not interfere at all, at all, with their continuous and gracious charity for the lowly and afflicted. We're telling you and we know.

But don't let any of us get excited and whether you pay or whether you don't pay, come down and enjoy the evening, because, all together, we can make it a very splendid one, something which should not be missed in a year of trial and travail, if we are able to draw from our country's record the stimulus and courage which tremendous experience has crowded into it.

The editors being such very busy folks this week, they press the point of early copy, which makes it necessary to confine the list to the receipts of the first mail, herewith submitted, appreciated and knighted with our accolades:

Bryn Mawr and Berwyn Bow to Narberth, in First Place

ball, Berwyn passed up a great chance to tie up the score in their half of the eighth when slow thinking on the part of Farren gummied the works to perfection. Throughout the game he had the crowd yelling a count in unison when he took his good old time about delivering the ball. One, two, three, etc., they would chorus as he wasted the afternoon away, and as it turned out this same slow motion was the cause of their poor showing in the next to last frame, thusly:

Farren began the inning by slapping a terrific three-bagger. Hayman drove a long fly to Francis in right field and instead of touching up at the bag and scoring after the catch, Farren left the base, then returned too late to take off for the scoring station, one of the most asinine bits of play we have seen this year.

Thus had Narberth won their game, not a very impressive one at that, and the town folk were a bit leery of what was in store for them up at Villanova. Bud Walker had been hit rather freely in recent games and many figured that he would be easy for the hard-hitting Bryn Mawrites.

Danny Hemmer, for once at least, failed to think clearly and pitched Charley Townsend, the left-hander who had beaten Upper Darby a day previously and any youngster of six should know that he would be in no shape to pitch again so soon without a rest. Davis decided on Bud Walker.

That crowd certainly was startled by what took place before their popping eyes. Walker hurled masterful ball throughout, allowing only two hits, both of which were chalked up to Shortstopper Carl Mooney, and besides slammed two safeties on his own account that proved very fruitful.

Narberth was in a hitting mood and no doubt would have banged any other of Hemmer's moundsmen in the same manner in which they treated Townsend. Five runs crossed in the second and two more in the third before a sudden rain storm threatened to make it no contest. However, the skies cleared up sufficiently soon and play was resumed. Townsend was slapped in merry style, finally giving way to Right Handers Nick Lyons, who pitched rather well from then to the end, being touched for two more, sewing up the game and first place for the Davismen.

Harry Francis continued to flash his long distance slugging form by clouting a three-bagger, while Harry King socked a double. Barney Slaughter, Cliff Mooney and Bud Walker shared honors with a brace of hits, each, while Howdy Powell played a bang-up game at the keystone stack. Carl Mooney, of the Choctaws, thrilled the crowd with a sensational catch of a line drive back of second base in the fifth, while Jack Flynn entered the concrete flooring of the stands in right center in the eighth to complete another colorful catch.

enjoyment to their children through an adequate display than the expenditure of a few dollars for home use.

"The usual appeal was made last week and some of our good people feel that it is a waste of money in these times to buy fireworks. My only answer is that after a great deal of hesitancy, I finally made my decision because of the very great number of inquiries which I received from people who were expecting to make their plans for the day accordingly. Their feeling, as well as that of the committee and myself, was that the affair should not be unduly elaborate, but that if there were a sufficient number of people interested, they would be willing to support it in a reasonable way. Certainly there is not going to be too great a proportion of 'spongers,' for undoubtedly those who disapprove will not attend.

"If we were spending previously accumulated funds which might well have been turned over to more charitable uses during the past winter, that would have been another question. However, since we are giving the people a chance to spend their holiday more economically and safely at home and to have a fitting celebration at a nominal cost, I believe the weight of the argument rests with the action which has been taken. In any event, it is too late to turn back, and we will have to await the results of the day itself to see whether we used the proper judgment or made a bad guess."

Young Narberth Collector Obtains G. B. Shaw Autograph

obtain the signature of the Italian nobleman, Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy. This was accomplished by virtue of a letter telling how file writer was collecting the autographs of the greatest men of the world. The flattery had its desired effect. A different tack brought the autograph of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi from India.

Women, young Claghorn has found, are usually very obliging in the matter of autographs, but often expose a certain amount of vanity by autographing photos of their own in place of the one he sent them to write upon. Lady Astor, for instance, wrote him that she should hate to be preserved in such a hideous picture and enclosed a copy of an etching of her by John Singer Sargeant.

Il Duce, Benito Mussolini, is one of the few famous men of the world who is not represented in Claghorn's collection. He has written to him several times, but so far to no avail. It is said that Mussolini refuses absolutely to give his autograph, but Claghorn is not discouraged and hopes to get it eventually.

One of the most prized objects in his collection is an autographed cabinet photograph sent him by the late William Howard Taft just two days before he was taken with the stroke which caused his death.

There are some persons, Claghorn has found, who are very obliging in furnishing their autographs. Ex-President Coolidge is one of these, as was Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

Other notables in his collection include President Hoover, Vice-President Curtis, Charles G. Dawes, Thomas A. Edison, General Pershing, Richard E. Byrd, Amelia Earhart, Chief Justice Hughes, Senator Borah, "Al" Smith, Bobby Jones, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Helen Keller, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Willa Cather, Booth Tarkington, the late Marshal Joffre, Albert Einstein, (whose signature was most difficult to obtain), Dr. Hugo Eckener, Sir Harry Lauder, Rudyard Kipling and John Galsworthy.

Colonel Lindbergh and Paul von Hindenburg, president of Germany, together with Mussolini, are the only three outstanding world figures whose autographs this enterprising young collector has not yet obtained, but he hopes to secure them eventually.

MEAT FOR THE PIUTE

The sullen menace of stampeding thousands of buffalo . . .

One lone redskin, armed with nothing but a slender bow and sharp, stinging arrows . . .

You've seen a revival of this drama of the Old West in the modern business world. You've heard the dull roar of the herd as it stampeded . . . eyes on the ground . . . blind frantic fear in every heart.

And the few doughty braves who stood by with heads up and eyes alert . . . refusing to see or hear anything but opportunity in the human stampede. You've seen them. Their courage showed itself in their undaunted effort to get business where the world said there was no business. And if you watched them closely you saw them selling goods to those who said nobody was buying.

"Who are these modern sharpshooters?" you may ask.

That's easy. Pick up your community's own weekly news organ and you have a list of them. They're the advertisers . . . the ones who saw nothing but Opportunity in the menacing roar of the stampede . . . and seeing Opportunity, grasped it.

To the retail store—large or small—news-paper advertising is at once a vital necessity and a profitable investment. The wise merchant realizes that every dollar he spends for advertising today is buying him business insurance . . . in far greater measure than ever before.
